

Automobile dealers in Utah are licensed, bonded and must follow strict regulations in each vehicle transaction. Most dealers are honest and pleasant to work with and purchasing from a dealer may save you many of the hassles of paperwork and titling that you might experience when purchasing from a private party. In addition, many used car dealers offer vehicles that have been inspected for major problems, repaired if needed, and some even offer warranties on the used vehicles they sale.

To ensure your experience with a dealer is completed to your satisfaction, read the following information. If you have a complaint about your experience with a dealer, see "Complaints About Dealers" to find out what recourse you may have.

- Temporary Permits
- Vehicle Titles
- Paying off Your Trade-in
- Vehicle Financing Disclosure
- Salvage Vehicles and Branded Titles
- Consignment Sales
- Utah's Lemon Law
- Warranties and Third Party Service Contracts
- Complaints About Dealers